NEWSLETTER - Januar 2012

HERTEC ELASTOMERIC PUA SYSTEMS

Building a sustainable future together!

Nowadays a modern building requires more than an attractive design. The idea of the concept is to unite the best, trend-setting technologies for energy efficient building in accordance with local climatic conditions. The intention is to support intelligent, sustainable building by offering a complete portfolio within a network of competent partners and to ensure climate protection.

Manufacturers of epoxy and polyurethane based coating systems know that up to 95 % of the common products can be replaced by advanced materials. For 100 % solid Polyurea, HERTEC Polyurea-Systems it is possible to use renewable, high quality raw materials for many years now. This saves fossile resources and the environment. By using innovative raw materials, solvents or well-known environmental toxicants can be completely replaced. These listed, hormonally active substances are prohibited in Scandinavia for many years. In many fields of application in Germany there are chemical prohibition directives too. Despite of the known, potential danger some manufacturers of coatings are still carelessly using these environmental toxicants and not or rather difficult biodegradable substances for their coatings. On this issue various expert contributions and studies are published which can be found on the internet.

To obtain the overview of the diverse products available on the market and to be able to choose the right coating product regarding health-and environmental related aspects, you should deal with this issue intensively in advance. As a responsible planner, client or user you should not be content with emission-reduced products but demand the use of "practically emission-free" products to ensure that no hazardous substances evaporate subsequently.

We are aware of our responsibility as manufacturer and trader regarding environment protection and health towards the human and the nature.

Yours Hercules Team
